How to set up your files
What format do I send my files as?
We recommend supplying your files as high-resolution PDFs. Files can also be supplied as AI (Adobe Illustrator), EPS, PSD and high-quality JPEG or PNG files. Make sure images are embedded and fonts outlined where possible.
What colour profile should I use?
Printing uses CMYK toner (Cyan, Magenta, Yellow & Black), please make sure that your files are setup and supplied with a CMYK colour profile, so that you have more control over the final print result. If supplied in RGB (Red, Green & Blue) this can affect the colour reproduction, as RGB is used for digital where the colours are light based.
What resolution do I design at?
Always setup and export your file at 300dpi for best print quality. Lower resolutions are typically used for viewing digital files on screen and can result in print runs that are pixelated or blurry.
What is bleed and do I need to use it?
Include a 3mm bleed on all sides of your artboard and extend your artwork to cover this area. This allows more room when trimming to prevent white edges. Export with crop marks to make sure your artwork is trimmed accurately.
What should I do with fonts?
When supplying artwork for signage, stickers or garments, outline all fonts to avoid substitution issues as we may not have all on file.
What dimensions shall I send my file as?
Set your file to the final desired print size with bleed and trim guides included during export. This makes sure no resolution is lost by scaling up.
How should I name my files?
Name your files clearly and using version control to ensure the most up to date file is used when going to print.
